Summary: (machine translated) Very beautiful, aquatic and technically demanding canyon; well equipped; three emergency exits in the lower part; several pools with strong currents and undercutting; also with small returning pools is to be expected; large catchment area (15Km ²); no beginner tour! Possibly some steps slidable / jumpable; access through stone tunnel with beautiful views.
Hydrology:
Access: (machine translated) 40min From Reutte drive in southern direction to the village Stockach. Before the bridge (gas station) there is a large gravel parking place on the right and left side of the road where you can also stay overnight (parking1 day €3,-, overnight €10,-, as of 2022). Either you park your car here or you drive up to the left in the direction of Sulzbach, briefly over the bridge and left to the last house (old youth hostel) next to the Sulzbach. There is room for about 10 cars here.
Approach: (machine translated) 1h Directly at the old youth hostel can be descended before the tour in the stream to then check upstream after 10min the water level at the last high 25m + 8m cascade. After the check it is best to go up via the forest road right next to the youth hostel (hiking signs "Stierboden, Sulzbachalm"). After the panoramic tunnel holes, continue to the wooden cross. Here, immediately turn left onto a cow path and descend to the stream (small wooden bridge) at approx. 1280m.
Tour: (machine translated) 3-3,5h The tour starts a bit below the Sulzbachalm, which is open in summer, at the small wooden bridge. After a walking and descending section (approx. 200m) comes the first of many, up to max. 10m high rappelling points, which are mostly mastered without major problems. Between the abseils in the upper half there are always short walking and downclimb passages. The further you descend, the more the canyon narrows and the difficulty increases. The rappels are all well placed. However, caution and clean rope work are a prerequisite in the partly very aquatic and current-rich pools! Two prominent 25m rappels with large pools (1x in the middle and 1x at the end) are the key points of the tour. If you don't have a good feeling at the last high cascade (25m+ 8m), you can descend via a fixed rope and an old maintenance path, orographically left to the shallow streambed (at about 1200m).
Return: (machine translated) 15min After the last cascade, follow the flat streambed back to the youth hostel (parking lot) at about 1100m.

All bolts/chains are present according to the topo "Tiroler Schluchtenführer". At abseil No. 7, a Rappel Guide or Circuit Ferme is advantageous or necessary at a high water level (bolts are present at the bottom-left), strong backflow and rocks are washed out. At rappel no. 3 there is also a strong backflow. The pool is relatively large (not visible from above) - use steel rope as rappel guide or jump in front of the white water. Have fun....
