Summary: (machine translated)
Not very challenging, but quite fun, aquatic canyon that has a bit of everything (jumps, slides, rappel, narrow swimming spots).

Access: (machine translated)
Coming from Scheibbs drive towards Lunz am See, at Weißenbach turn left towards Langau. Approx. 1 km after Langau, you can park on the right at the old forester's lodge (before the bridge).

Approach: (machine translated)
If you want to walk the entire canyon, take the forest road up the southern bank of the canyon. After about 2km you come to a fork, here you take the downhill forest road which crosses a stream after a few hundred meters - this is the entry point.

If you only want to do the more interesting lower part, take the marked hiking trail on the northern bank of the canyon. After about 35 minutes of ascent, you cross the 'Gerade Plan', an avalanche gully. Follow the clear climbing tracks into the streambed.

Tour: (machine translated)
There are two small rappels to complete in the side stream before you reach the Taglesbach. After a short section of walking, you soon come to a slide about 7m high, followed by another longer section of walking until you reach the alternative access.

Further down, the stream narrows and becomes increasingly aquatic. There are 2-3 rappels (the third one can also be jumped, but is relatively narrow), several small jumps and a few slides.

In the open rocky area after the gorge, there is an emergency exit to the left secured with a wire rope. The wire rope begins before the first slide and leads about 30m up through a rocky gully. Then turn right into the forest.

Return: (machine translated)
Simply get out on the left and take the hiking trail back to the parking lot.

A very popular canyon. As beautiful as ever. (machine translated)

Fun canyon, different elements and fixed ropes. Prepare for a lot of walking, just few short rappels. One high jump not possible due to underwater log - not clearly visible. Highest rappel possible through stream. Jump in narrow cave can be done after checking.

Everything tip top. The water level is currently superiore fun. All the pools are submerged, in principle everything is jumpable with caution (how long this will last is questionable, as there is a lot of wood in the stream). A small note: at the obligatory only high rappel that is possible from the left and right. Please be careful at the ortographic left rappel if there is a lot of water. A siphon has formed due to the wooden obstruction. Otherwise no problems. Ropes still ok. (machine translated)

Some places had to be bypassed when there was a lot of water. But it works very well with the existing anchors. Some new larger stones and rhizomes available. Be careful with the jumps. (machine translated)

The first orange fixed rope was taken by a tree. Otherwise everything was great. (machine translated)

After the last flood many trees, high jump must be bypassed (trees in the water), narrow place - root in the way - at higher water level siphon - but can be bypassed right at the rope traverse. Otherwise everything works. (machine translated)

Together with Niki, off the bridge to escape the groups. Quite slippery today but a pleasant amount of water, not too much, everything doable. Some roots and rocks under the white water. Very nice and not too cold at 12°C! (machine translated)

Lots of cold meltwater. Jumps all look OK, but we didn't jump everything as some pools were only white. (machine translated)

Everything is ok. It finally happened, after many years the big tree at the highest rappel is finally gone (see photo). Stream currently great and not slippery. Kathi's first canyon... (machine translated)

Everything is tip top. A lot of water at the moment, but no problem. All the jumps and slides are doable. Due to all the white water, you can't tell from above whether the jump/slide is possible. We checked and dipped out all the pools. (machine translated)

Currently very little water. Nicely cleaned, little slippery. Walked from the bridge. Currently only 1 rappel. 25 m rope sufficient. Everything else perfectly slippery / jumpable or to climb down. All fixed ropes with sheath crack exchanged. (machine translated)
