Advertencias:
El ancla está en mal estado
Los puntos de anclaje no son seguros. O no cumplen la norma, o están mal instalados, o son obsoletos e inseguros.

Especialidades:

Equipo:
Cuerdas: 2x25m, 2x55m
herramienta de perforación, Taladradora,

Resumen:
This is a pleasant canyon that can be descended in half a day. The 50m rappel is particularly beautiful. Equipment questionable - see reports.

Hidrología:
For it to present a medium difficulty level, the flow rate must be fairly low.

Acceso:
From Domodossola, head to Villadossola and take the Val d'Antrona road. One kilometer after the village of Boschetto, the road crosses the stream. Park 200m before the bridge, next to an old garage that is used by the locals as an illegal rubbish dump.

Acceso:
Walk down the street 20 meters to find a staircase. Take that path that leads to a footbridge, and descend just before it on the right.

Recorrido:
To reach the anchor of the C50, the safest way is to stay on the rope from the waterfall before. You absolutely need to handle rope friction on the big rappel, the anchor is placed very badly. The remaining C20 has no bolts, use the big trees behind the block river right. After some downclimbs, you reach the main river. You must cross a deep 70m pool with narrow walls. The exit trail starts right at the end of the narrow section river right.

Regreso:
After the pool, climb to the right up a fairly steep path to find a good trail, then cross the canyon on a footbridge and continue climbing up to the village of Boschetto. Follow the road back to the upstream parking area.

On this copied route, the anchors are even worse than the description suggests. While the access and return route are correct, I can’t make sense of the sequence of slides, jumps, and rappels at all. I’ve adjusted them. Don’t be fooled by the first two (adhesive) anchors—all subsequent anchors are more or less life-threatening or nonexistent. We had to rappel down from trees several times. The swim at the end is the icing on the cake and rounds out the route. We must warn you about the water quality: The route smelled slightly of sewage from the very beginning; the day after the tour, 4 out of 6 participants had gastrointestinal problems; and in the days that followed, there was always a stench of a sewage treatment plant when passing the road bridge before the entry.
