Resumen: (traducción alternativa)
A short, shallow section of the stream designed specifically for children to have their first canyoning experience. Well-equipped. A few fun slides. No high rappelling sections.

Hidrología:

Acceso: (traducción alternativa)
Coming from Dornbirn, head toward Gütle. From there, we'll head toward the entry for the Kobelache. Pass the Kobelache parking lot, stay on Gütlestraße, and continue toward the entry for the Rudach. However, at the haipin bend, do not continue up toward the Rudach; instead, turn right in the bend and park in the gravel parking place where a forest road branches off.

Acceso: (traducción alternativa)
From the parking lot, follow the forest road up along the stream to a prominent point where two streams converge. Here, ascend to the left of the left-hand tributary, cross the stream, and begin the climb above the double ledge. The first anchors for a rope traverse are already in place here.

Recorrido: (traducción alternativa)
Starting with a rope traverse, the route leads to the first chain anchor, Oro on the right, about 8 meters away. Next comes the highest rappelling point at 15 meters. This can be rappelled down from Oro on the right either dry or using a rope system, as well as from 2x Oro on the left, partly also using a rope system. To do this, there is an anchor on a rock to the left of Oro for securing the rope.

After that, the route continues down the stream via several small slides, downclimbs, and shorter rappels under 5 meters. When the streambed opens up again, there's a short river walk, and at a suitable spot, exit to the left of Oro onto the forest road.

Regreso: (traducción alternativa)
After the exit, it's just a few minutes back to the parking lot.

Let's do another round of "Ice Age" for the little one. It was super for her again. (traducción alternativa)

A truly beautiful canyon for kids to experience their first canyon adventure. It’s not particularly spectacular for adults, though, since you can downclimb to all but two spots. For kids, it’s a dream come true—water and limestone. The canyon is only slightly carved out, well-secured, and perfect for little explorers. We were there today with a 6-year-old who had the time of her life□□ (traducción alternativa)
