Parking at the wastewater treatment plant. Access: Head toward the stream. At the green railing, first climb a few steps, then head steeply into the forest, following the water pipe. In some places, there’s a thin steel cable on the rock face to hold onto. Route: First a short downclimb, then two rappels of about 15 meters each, followed by the tall final waterfall. We rappelled down the tall section in one go without using the intermediate belay point. Getting out was no problem. Return route: Through the tunnel to the sea and up the stairs on the right. A short and relaxing route. (traducción alternativa)

Really a lot of water after rain ◫ Stand at high rappel offers only little space (2 rings & a lug, not connected) Access partly exposed, steep and brittle. (traducción alternativa)

Access path is rather steep but obvious, a bit overgrown and short (start by the green handrail, up to a water tank or what, than follow the pipeline). Takes 20-25 minutes. The big one needs careful logistics: 2m + 6m + 32m + 50m, all on the right. The two later ones are free-hanging, but at least out of water. Not as slippery as it seems.

A very short canyon with a beautiful, breathtaking waterfall with a fascinating view. There are two waterfalls in the Agua Alto canyon. The upper waterfall is still cut in, the C90 open with a view of the Atlantic. The second cascade, about 90 meters high, ends right next to the road (VE2, São Vicente - Porto Moniz) and flows into the Atlantic Ocean. The 90-metre waterfall is accessed in several intermediate stages. (traducción alternativa)
