Résumé: (traduction alternative)
Relatively open rappel canyon

Hydrologie:

Accès: (traduction alternative)
From Rib. Grande (in the direction of Porto Novo), you pass through the village of Corda. There are a few hairpin bends and after a long stretch without a decisive change of direction, there is a sharp bend to the right. Here, at 1130 m above sea level, there is a house in the bend on the left. The descent ends either at the access to the lower part of the Vinha or at the Vinha integrale (recommended) at the end point of the lower Vinha.There you should order a (collective) cab if necessary.

Approche: (traduction alternative)
To the right of the said house, descend the paved mule track for about 50 meters and then immediately turn right onto a path that runs between the walled terraces, rising very slightly in a southerly direction along the slope. After a few houses we turn left downhill (east direction). We now always follow this path - partly also more steeply downhill. Thereby we cross some side valleys of the Vinha. We see a dam wall, we go on, we see a second dam wall, where we enter from the path above on the right. After about 100 m we come to the first airy anchor at the exit of a basalt gully.

Tour: (traduction alternative)
At the beginning higher rappel, a total of 10 in the upper part. On the left an exit possibility on a path.

Retour: (traduction alternative)
Either after the Vinha sup. at the access point to the Vinha inferiore (crossing footpath); then descend in the opposite direction to the access to the Vinha inferiore (cf. there); or at the exit of the Vinha inferiore (cf. also there).One can also climb at the end of the Vinha sup. the path crossing here instead of right to Losna in the opposite direction left and back to the starting point. However, the many steps (no standard height!) might not be everyone's cup of tea.
