Résumé: (traduction alternative)
Mostly rappel canyon with little water

Hydrologie:

Accès: (traduction alternative)
From Larissa good 55 km in the west direction or from Meteora monasteries (Kalambaka) about 22 km in the SE direction you reach the town of Trikala. From here you continue in southwestern direction to Mouzaki (about 18 km). There are alternative routes. In Mouzaki you drive southwards over the river Pamissos on the road that leads to Karditsa. Shortly after the bridge, turn right onto a small tarred road along the southwestern edge of a settlement. The destination is the monastery of Agios Georgios. Still in the settlement, the road begins to climb after a left turn. Continuously uphill, passing a well chapel on the left side of the slope along the road, after 2.3 km (from the bridge) you reach the plateau with the cemetery (on the right) and the monastery (on the left). Park the car here.
A shuttle is also possible. In this case, park a car at the exit.

Approche: (traduction alternative)
From the monastery you go down in a southwesterly direction without any path into the streambed.

Tour: (traduction alternative)
West facing canyon, quite open, the light stone gives it a friendly ambience. Also well suited for beginners. The name Mega Rema (= Great Stream) is rather exaggerated in view of the mostly meager water flow.

Retour: (traduction alternative)
After the canyon opens up and the slope decreases decisively, you march a few hundred meters in the scree-strewn streambed until you can exit to the left onto an open (meadow) area. Continuing along the stream, you finally come to the wide dirt road by the Pamisos River. Here, turn right in a northerly direction, along a wire fence on the right, and a few meters after its exit you will find a path on the right (at a picnic area), which first crosses a wooden footbridge, then comfortably climbs uphill and reaches the highest area almost exactly at the car.
