Matériel: Cordes: 1x20
Résumé: (traduction alternative) Extremely short but narrow gorge directly below the road. Can be combined with the first gorge of the Arzinos. Usually no water flow but pools filled with clear water.
Hydrologie: (traduction alternative) Water seeps away above the gorge and emerges from springs at the gorge exit
Accès: (traduction alternative) Take the Strada Provinciale SP1 through the Arzino valley to the bridge over the Rio del Lat, turn off in the direction of Zopiet and park immediately on the left.
Approche: (traduction alternative) At the orographic left canyon rim descend a few meters into the mostly dry streambed.
Tour: (traduction alternative) The gorge immediately constricts. After some downclimbing there is a 2.5m rappel from anchor right (downclimbable), then a beautiful gorge with a few hip-deep pools. From the last pool, rappel 8m from the anchor on the right and climb around the last large blocks. If you want to extend the tour a little, you can add the first gorge of the Arzino. Descend through the riverbed of the Arzino until the stream ditches into the rock, in the gorge some small steps (WW III-IV), first explore from the road. Exit at the beach below, the second Arzino gorge is much narrower and reserved for kayakers.

2026-03-07   GeorgB   ★   📖★★★★   🗣️★★   🌊 Sèche   🍏 Terminé Super short but somehow nice appetizer. Made after the Rio Sclusons and before the Rio Agaviva (traduction alternative)
