Résumé: (traduction alternative)
A beautiful and mostly very aquatic lime canyon; cold water; short rappelling sections (jumps); Stainless steel single hooks; can be easily combined with the Zinkenbach or, for very athletic hikers, with the Gerbach, which flows into the Ackersbach; south-facing; beautiful sunlight starting around noon; no or poor cell phone reception.

Hydrologie: (traduction alternative) large watershed; abundant meltwater in the spring; prone to flooding

Accès: (traduction alternative)
From Salzburg Süd via the A10 to the Golling exit. Then continue on the B102 (Lammertalstraße) towards Abtenau. At "Voglauerhof", turn left over the Lammer bridge and then immediately left again. Follow the mountain road to the large parking lot at Pichl (47°36'03.00 N, 13°17'55.00 E) where you can park your car.

Approche: (traduction alternative)
(Bike)
From there, ride your bike (along the Aubach) on the wide forest road for about 20–25 minutes (5.9 km) toward Postalm until you reach the bridge that crosses the Ackersbachklamm (758 m, WGS84, 47°32'52"N, 13°20'32"E). The entry is immediately after the bridge on the left, across the Gerbach tributary, which flows into the Ackersbach here.

Tour: (traduction alternative)
The Ackersbachklamm is a beautiful, short and mostly very aquatic lime canyon with very clean water. At high water levels, the canyon should not be underestimated as almost all rappels are in the watercourse. Some deep pools can also be jumped after inspection. As with the nearby Zinkenbach and Gerbach, the emergency drill set should not be missing in this remote and rarely visited canyon. On very sunny days, you can also enjoy a wonderful swim/barbecue at the exit.)

Retour: (traduction alternative)
(15-minute walk + 15-minute bike ride)
After the last set of steps or pools, you can head straight up on the right up the steep, pathless, mostly dry Vermosten Zulauf through the dense young forest (near the stream) to the forest road/bike path, or follow the stream to the forest road, which joins the old Postalmstraße after a few minutes. Here, turn right again and head up to the bike path.

It's extremely slippery right now, so some jumps aren't possible because landing would be too dangerous. All the anchors are in top shape. (traduction alternative)

A nice finish to the Gerbach trail. There are a few jumps along the way, but at the spot with the handrail on the left, you'll need to watch your step on the two smaller jumps because of the fallen trees and some rocks! The way back doesn't have to be cross-country through the woods without a trail—there's an easy forest path a few meters further on (I'll update the description). With a charming smile, you might even get a ride sometimes ;) (traduction alternative)
