Résumé: (traduction alternative)
And its beginning in the wadi of the Abuelita, this without difficulties until you reach the dam where the Moral begins, from which the first rappel is made. Dry, very boxed and with certain really interesting passages. A classic of the zone that forces us to make combination of vehicles. In summer to avoid the hours of more heat

Hydrologie:

Accès: (traduction alternative)
We'll need to head to Albodón, which we'll reach from Albuñol via the A345
Parking in Albondón
Once past Albuñol, right at the exit, at the roundabout, we'll turn left onto the A4131 toward Órgiva and Sorvilán. We'll drive 2 km to the Cantor Bridge and park the car we'll use for the return trip there.
With the access car, we'll return to the roundabout and this time head up to Albondón. We'll drive through the village, and on the outskirts, we'll find the sports facilities on the left. If we have a low-clearance car or don't want to drive on the dirt road, we'll park here.
If you want to continue on the trail, just past the sports facilities there is a trail on the left, next to the power tower; take it, and 150 meters later there is a fork with three trails (the left one leads to Madroñalejo); continue straight ahead. We'll pass small access trails to farms and cabins on either side and continue descending along the main trail right along the ridge until we reach almost the top of our ravine; here, the trail turns north to descend to the Abuelita ravine. Once we reach the bottom, we'll park

Approche: (traduction alternative)
We will follow the Rambla de la Abuelita until the confluence of ravines where Moral begins. A little further the dam from which the ravine really begins.

Tour: (traduction alternative)
Very boxed, with really spectacular areas for its colors, the marks of the passage of water, ... We will find the first mandatory rappel at the dam and from here 14 rappels (some of which we can avoid) and many skills until you reach the Valenciano wadi.

Retour: (traduction alternative)
We will follow the Rambla del Valenciano to the bridge.
