Résumé: (traduction alternative)
Alpine canyon, open, with steep slopes although in ramp and high flows until well into the summer. Caution with avalanches

Accès: (traduction alternative)
We must be located in the Alt Pallars, where we will arrive by the C28 from Vielha or by the C13 on the side of Sort and Llavorsí.
We will arrive at Esterri d'Àneu, enter the village and take the road that goes up the Noguera towards Isil. Nice winding road in this lush, deep and wet valley of the Pyrenees. We will pass these small villages of slate and stone, so well preserved, to reach Alós d'Isil, the last village before the end of the conventional road. From here, an old track, now asphalted, where we will have to maneuver carefully if another vehicle comes in front, and that was a place of escape not so many years ago. Today, well remembered with the signs of the "Cami de la Llibertat".
A little more than 2kms after leaving Alós we will find a sign on our left of the parq de l'Alt Pirineu and 2 kms later we arrive at the Refugi del Fornet, a great place to eat and sleep. We will continue along the same track passing the Bordas d'Isil until the bridge of the Perosa, where a parking on the right will allow us to leave the car in a good place.

Approche: (traduction alternative)
From this emblematic site of the paths of freedom, we have wonderful views of the Alt Pallars, the peaks of Clavera, Tres Comtes, Barlonguéra, etc.. Without crossing the bridge we leave by the track of Clavera (left bank of the Noguera) and 500m later we will cross our ravine and we will be able to observe its flow. By any of its banks we will go up the ravine until we pass the waterfalls area.

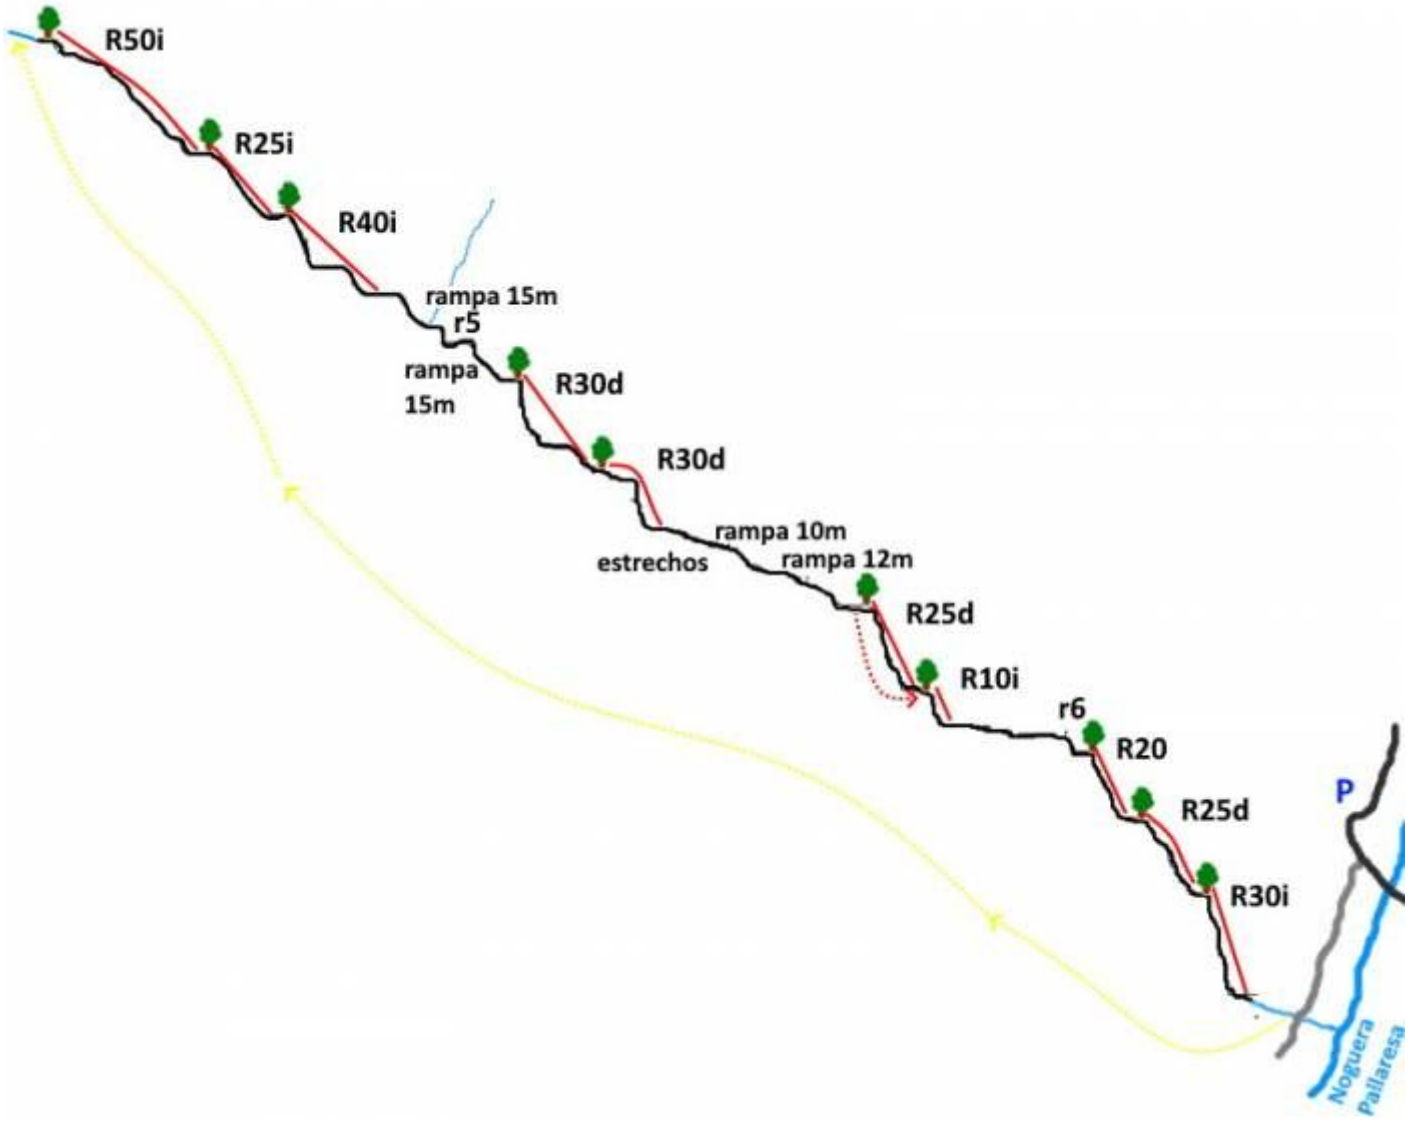

Tour: (traduction alternative)
See topography

Retour: (traduction alternative)
At the end of the last waterfall, we will go down to the track and back to the car.
