Résumé: (traduction alternative)
Open ravine with lots of vegetation, it does not usually carry water except during the rainy season and / or winter, which is the advisable season.

Hydrologie:

Accès: (traduction alternative)
We arrived at Lanestosa by the N629, in the pk 61.2 in a turn with some houses we have the detour to Calera del Prado. We continue to the village and park in the square or next to the church the car back.
The access car by the road of aldeacueva almost 4kms to a crossroads behind a house that begins a forest. Here we take the track that goes to the right and is gaining height, soon another crossroads to the right and later another to the right put us in the valley of the ravine. As a viewpoint we will continue along the track that descends to the entrance to the stream of Pozo Negro where we park.

Approche: (traduction alternative)
Calera river ravines and its accesses

We cross the stream by the dam and go up a path, towards the Cuesta del Hoyo ravine, to the shack in ruins. From here we follow the track to the west and in a kilometer and a bit we are in the ravine. Be careful not to go too far and reach Ezpeleta.

Tour: (traduction alternative)
Open canyon, in which we can escape at all times, with two very different areas. The first one totally aerial with 5 rappels to save almost 200m of unevenness. The second one has some projections and some simple rappels.

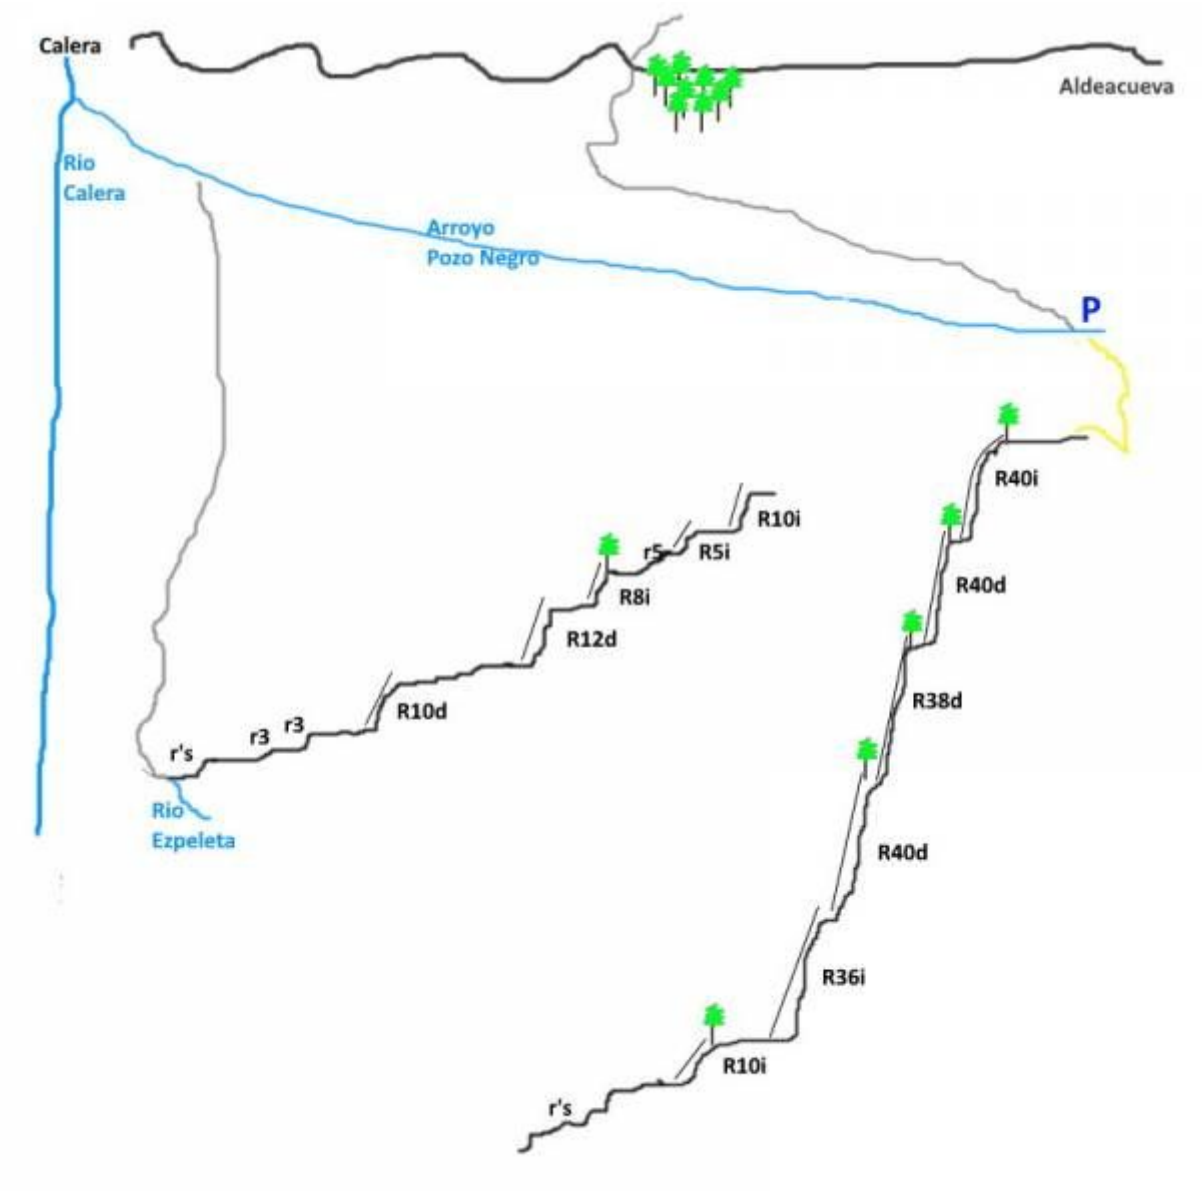

Retour: (traduction alternative)
After the last projections, the ravine joins Ezpeleta on the left and shortly after with Pozo Negro on the right. Here we can continue descending the Pozo Negro gully or turn right in search of the path a few meters higher up.
