Résumé: (traduction alternative)
River, temporarily incised with plenty of water flow in spring. However, this is not a problem because the 4 rappels can be made next to the stream.

Hydrologie:

Accès: (traduction alternative)
From Ierapetra in a westerly direction along the sea to Myrtos. From here head north towards Malés. Shortly before reaching this village, turn left and drive past Malés in the direction of Christos. We cross the Sarakinas River and park our car (for access) 80m after the bridge on the area to the right of the road

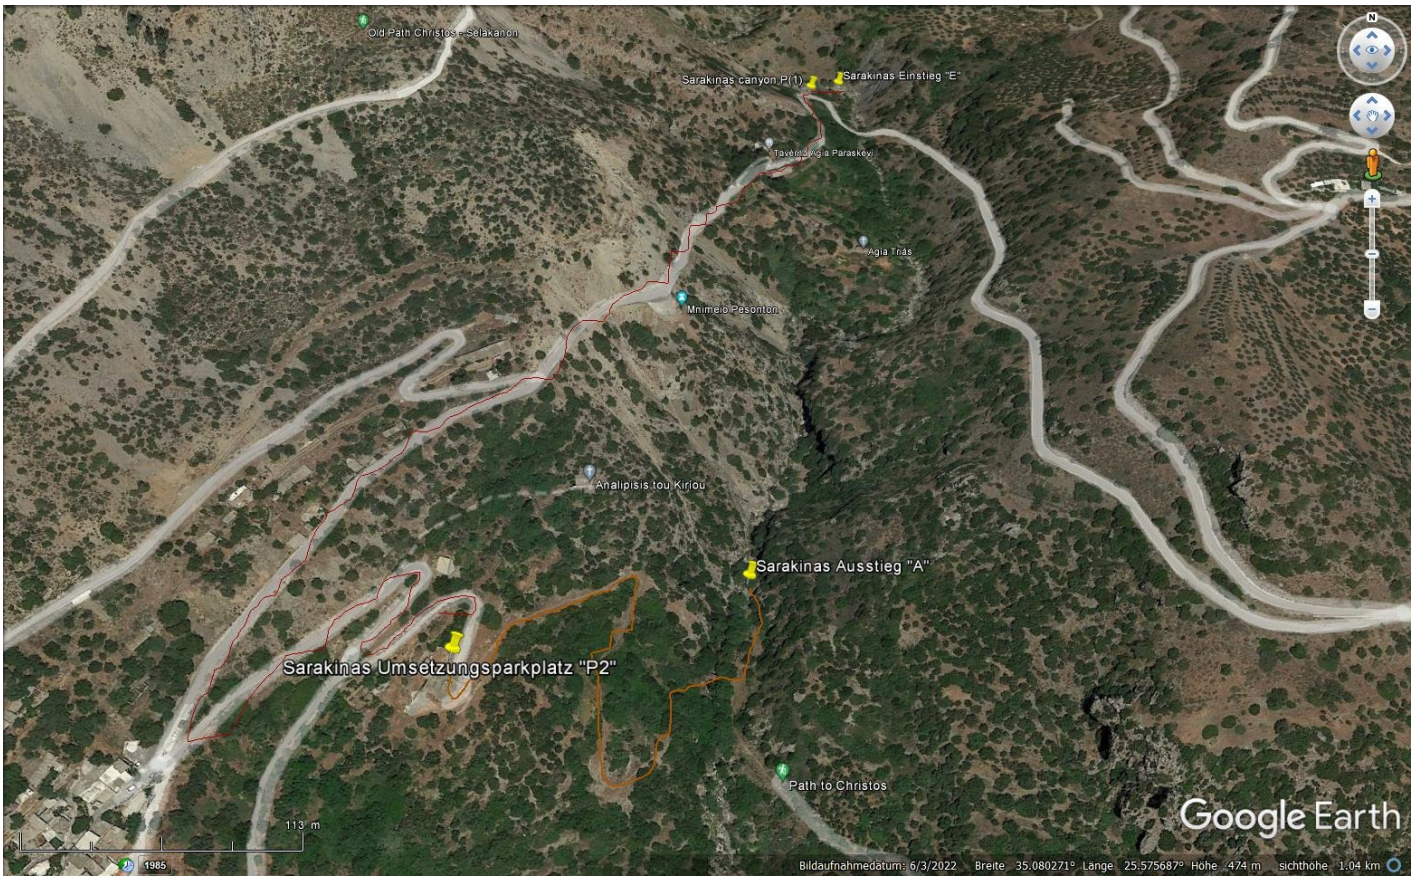

Approche: (traduction alternative)
From here in an easterly direction a few meters directly through bushes down to the stream (entry).

Tour: (traduction alternative)
After reaching the stream "E", you can cross it and descend on the left bank slightly above the stream until you are required to re-enter the streambed before crossing under the road bridge. After about 10 minutes you come to the 12th rappel. The 3 further rappels follow without any significant walking passages. After the last and highest rappel, it is about 10 minutes to the exit.

Retour: (traduction alternative)
After a conspicuous deciduous tree on top of 2 rocks in the streambed, look for a convenient exit option on the left bank. On an indistinct but wide meadow path you reach the bridge, cross the river on it and take the path up the opposite slope until you reach a large storage building ("P (2)" at the 2nd right-hand serpentine. From here continue uphill, turn right at the T-junction and up to the main road at the entrance to the village of Christos. Do not enter the village here, but turn right down the main road to the parking lot "P(1)". Due to the short distance, it is not necessary to change the route.
