Automatisch importiert von Descente-Canyon.com für Canyon Antin Descent completed in 5 hours. Many of the existing anchor points are (badly) damaged or missing. We replaced a couple of acnchors so à safe descent is possible now.The canyon is definitely worth descending, despite the long and steep walk to Colla (Quelle: https://www.descente-canyon.com/canyoning/canyon-debit/22441/observations.html)

From Alpe Colla take the hiking path to the tributary river coming in the canyon at the start. you can down climb on the right bank (relatively easy, but high exposure). We rebolted 1 rappel stand that was missing. and optimalised 2 other with handlines to improve very sketchy/slippery exposed acces. most of the other 31 abseils are bolted in M8 that took a beating by high water, not in to good shape. for the moment ok but take precautions and be prepared to rebolt once and a while. Very nice canyon, especially the final part

Automatisch importiert von Descente-Canyon.com für Canyon Antin Arriving in the canyon after sketchy down climb in the forrest, we saw that the first anchor was completly broken. Without the drill it wasn't worth to take the risk to find maybe more rappels without usable anchors since we didnt found information that the canyon was already done this year.So we turned around and walked back (Quelle: https://www.descente-canyon.com/canyoning/canyon-debit/22441/observations.html)

From Alpe Colla the path is not always clear, we left the main path shortly after the metal stair and went horizontally till reaching a rock ridge with a tree, MC10 till another tree with C40 to enter the canyon. Final 55m use the old french chains to reach the newest two separated anchor points high, that let you go down close the water flow and with easy recovery.
