Specialità:

Attrezzatura:

Sintesi: (traduzione alternativa)
Short, but not interrupted gorge.
Beautiful canyon that starts very relaxed. The demands are constantly increasing until the very beautiful 35 m waterfall at the exit.

Idrologia: (traduzione alternativa)
The requirements vary greatly depending on the water supply. In late spring, the canyon often dries out quickly and is then rather uninteresting.

Accesso: (traduzione alternativa)
Can be done either from the south or from the north, see photo gallery CWiki

Avvicinamento: (traduzione alternativa)
see photo gallery CWiki- red line

Giro: (traduzione alternativa)
Several smaller rappels, then at the end a 35m rappel (to be done from the left or right).

After a few meters, the stream enters the canyon. This is followed by several short abseils no longer than 5 m, some of which can also be downclimbed. Jumps are not possible. The small pools are shallow and blocked. The often slippery blocks in the watercourse require some caution.
The short rappel after the giant tree is followed by a channel (critical depending on the water supply) with several BHs leading to the final drop. You can rappel from the chain in a 35 m step in the watercourse or left 10 m to 2 moderate BH0. From these, a 25 m rappel leads over a whirlpool cave into the final pool. Alternatively, you can traverse from the moderate BH to the left and rappel from a tree outside the waterline.

Water quality: good but murky, hardly any garbage
Equipment: good to moderate
Emergency exit only possible at the start

Ritorno: (traduzione alternativa)
Exit the last pool on the left and follow the path to the fenced-in water building. Follow the fence until you reach the path back to the P.
