Attrezzatura:
Sintesi: (traduzione alternativa) Simple ravine that is very close to the Poyatos ravine, in fact it is a tributary of this ravine. Ideal for initiation. Of dry character, although after rains we will find it with water. The canyon is of open character and in some sections it fits a little, having escapes. It does not usually carry water, except in spring. This canyon is formed in limestone rock so it has a very nice aesthetic, as well as the environment surrounded by large walls and a huge flora and fauna that will leave us amazed. The ravine is short and we can combine it with the end of the Poyatos ravine. If you combine it with Poyatos you can save the climb to the head and do the 5 rappels of the sketch from the junction with the ascent of Poyatos.
Idrologia:
Accesso: (traduzione alternativa) Same as the Poyatos ravine: 1. Rio Escabas Bridge. On the road that takes us from Fuertescusa to Poyatos (CUV-9031) at the height of the camping the serranía take the road that goes to the right (Tragacete direction), about 3km approximately we find the bridge and a couple of parking lots, where we will leave one of the cars. 2. Parking Cabecera. From the village of Poyatos on the CUV-9031 towards Beteta about 2.5 km before a curve there is a road to the right. There we will leave the car.
Avvicinamento: (traduzione alternativa) With car combination is immediate, you can see the access from the track where we parked. Without combination of cars (From the bridge) by the road where we have come, we have to look for a small path little marked on the right hand side and ascend doing Z to the top of the Quebrada slope.
Giro: (traduzione alternativa) Very simple. The first part lacks interest. The 5 rappels are in the final zone near the Poyatos. It finishes in the ravine of Poyatos that we can continue or leave by the path of the right that goes parallel to the ravine of Poyatos.
Ritorno: (traduzione alternativa) After the last rappel at the dam, continue along the river and in 5 minutes we will be at the bridge where we will have left the car.
