This canyon is basically known by locals as the Lettenbach Canyon. It is a very beautiful, user-friendly canyon that is almost entirely accessible for rappelling. Following the restrictions at the Stuiben Falls, I have partially replaced or additionally reinforced some of the belay stations. Since there were no official restrictions for this canyon at the time, it was—precisely because of its relative obscurity—a true haven of peace compared to the heavily frequented Stuiben Falls. For about a year, I hiked it regularly with my guests without ever encountering anyone else. At some point, however, I found that the stainless-steel belay stations had been removed or cut off with an angle grinder. Apparently, this was due to opposition from a local landowner. I then tried to reach an agreement with the local agricultural community to officially allow regular access. I even proposed an admission fee model, but this was rejected. Therefore, the canyon is currently not officially open to the public. At the same time, there is no sign prohibiting access. :-) (traduzione alternativa)
