Long and wild but rewarding tour in the Friulaun Dolomites. Access path difficult to find.

Accesso: (traduzione alternativa)
At Ospitale di Cadore, get off the SS51 and then follow the old road upstream. Turn right down a short sand road and park the car on the gravel bank of the Piave.

Avvicinamento: (traduzione alternativa)
Wade through the Piave and hike briefly downstream to the mouth of the Val Costamolin. On the orographic right side of the gorge exit, take a well-marked path up the first mountain slope, then follow the markings until they lead downhill to the right. Keep left here, the path is no longer marked and is difficult to see in the high grass. Ascend above a drop-off, then follow the path, which is more visible here, until it flattens out in the area of the ruined Casera Costamolin Bassa. Do not follow the path marked on the tabacco map uphill here, but stay on an overgrown but clearly visible path at an altitude of 900m (freshly cut, cairns). After a short steeper ascent into a forest saddle, the path leads in a descending traverse into the streambed of Val Costamolin. The path is largely correctly marked in OSM.

Giro: (traduzione alternativa)
18 rappelling points up to 25m. The waterfalls are mostly washed out nice and smooth, and often have a water fountain built in. In the upper part, a 20min long descending section clouds the fun a bit. After 2/3 of the canyon there is a short artificial tunnel (here entry/exit to the right). In the lowest third the gorge becomes very narrow and steep, waterfalls and diving pools alternate.

Ritorno: (traduzione alternativa)
Crossing the Piave river and back to the car

We hiked only the lowest section—short, beautiful, narrow, and continuous—starting at an elevation of approximately 550 m. Up to this point, the approach trail is well-trodden and clearly marked. In this section, there are only 6 rope descents in total, including the spectacular 30-meter one that starts from a narrow corridor. The approach took 15 minutes, and the canyon hike took 1 hour. Consigliato il gps per l avvicinamento dell integrale, è facile perdersi tra le varie tracce erbose. Canyon bello ma discontinuo. Nella parte superiore ancoraggi singoli, doppi nella parte inferiore..spettacolare la cascata sotto il flusso

Approach very steep and difficult to find. A lot of burrs necessary, hooks only sparse and available in the most necessary places. (traduzione alternativa)
